1. PRELUDE:

The Bharatiya Jnana Parampara Vibhaga or Indian Knowledge System is a division of the Government of India's ministry of Education which purports to promote indigenous Indian system of Knowledge. This system provides the basic understanding of the rich Indian knowledge system and its traditions.

AIM:

By integrating ethical teachings available in IKS into higher education, Institutions can aid students in developing a sense of social accountability, compassion and ethical decision-making which is vital for balanced living.

OBJECTIVE:

- To complement and enrich contemporary higher education by providing a more comprehensive understanding of human knowledge, civilisation and cultural heritage and bringing benefits to students, academia and society at large.
- Students studying IKS can develop analytical skills and learn to approach problems from diverse perspectives fostering creativity and scholarly agility.
- NEP 2020 considers that by instilling ethics and values in Indian young people as a critical mandate of education for the students to evolve as responsible citizens.

INCORPORATING IKS:

Incorporating IKS in higher education institutions is the need of the hour. Our Institute took all efforts in all possible ways to promote and implement IKS on a regular basis. Still there is a need for more research and development for effective integration of IKS and to differentiate IKS from other knowledge traditions. We the faculty at Govt. Degree College for Men are trying to expose our students to the underlying Philosophical foundation of IKS.

IMPLEMENTATION IN OUR INSTITUTE:

The implementation of the Indian Knowledge system in our Institute has been a significant endeavour to revitalise and promote India's rich and diverse heritage of knowledge. This report provides an overview of the efforts made thus far in incorporating IKS into the academic curriculum of the university. These efforts encompass curriculum development – Conducting Certificate Courses, Literary programs and competitions for Student participation in the development of Language skills, Organising Language days, Conducting field trips for student exposure. This report highlights the progress made in the pursuit of this goal.

7. RESEARCH INITIATIVES:

Government Degree College for Men, Srikakulam has demonstrated a robust commitment to the promotion of Indian Knowledge Systems (IKS) through various cultural and educational activities. A significant contribution to this effort comes from the faculty members of the literature departments. This report aims to highlight the research publications by these faculty members and analyze how their work aligns with and promotes the principles of IKS.

Overview of Literature Departments

The college has active literature departments, including Telugu, English, Hindi, Sanskrit, and Odia. Each department has faculty members who engage in research that contributes to the rich tapestry of Indian literary heritage, fostering an understanding and appreciation of IKS.

Research Publications

Telugu Department

Faculty in the Telugu department have produced research that delves into classical and contemporary Telugu literature, exploring themes of cultural identity, traditional values, and historical narratives. Their work often revisits ancient texts, providing critical analysis and interpretations that underline the relevance of traditional knowledge in contemporary times.

English Department

The English department's research encompasses a broad spectrum of Indian literature in English, postcolonial studies, and translations of regional literary works into English. By translating and critically analyzing regional literature, these publications make IKS accessible to a global audience, thus preserving and disseminating traditional knowledge and cultural narratives.

Hindi Department

Research in the Hindi department often focuses on classical Hindi literature, Bhakti poetry, and modern Hindi prose and poetry. The faculty's work emphasizes the spiritual and philosophical dimensions of Hindi literature, reflecting the core tenets of IKS such as dharma (duty), karma (action), and moksha (liberation).

Sanskrit Department

The Sanskrit department's research publications are pivotal in promoting IKS, as they cover Vedic texts, classical literature, and ancient Indian philosophical treatises. The faculty's scholarly work in deciphering and interpreting ancient Sanskrit texts ensures the preservation and continuity of traditional knowledge systems, emphasizing their application in modern contexts.

Odia Department

Faculty research in the Odia department explores the rich literary traditions of Odisha, including medieval poetry, folk literature, and modern literary movements. Their work highlights the unique cultural and literary contributions of Odisha to the broader spectrum of Indian literature, thereby reinforcing regional knowledge systems within the national narrative.

The literature faculty at Government Degree College for Men, Srikakulam play a crucial role in the promotion of Indian Knowledge Systems through their research publications. By preserving, interpreting, and disseminating traditional literary knowledge, they contribute to a deeper understanding and appreciation of India's rich cultural heritage, ensuring its relevance and continuity in the modern world.

8. CONCLUDING REMARKS:

The Government Degree College for Men, Srikakulam, has made remarkable strides in promoting Indian Knowledge Systems (IKS) through a variety of educational and cultural initiatives. These efforts reflect the institution's commitment to preserving and propagating India's rich cultural heritage and traditional knowledge.

The college has effectively integrated IKS into its academic and extracurricular activities. Faculty members have produced significant research publications that explore classical and contemporary Indian literature, ensuring the preservation and dissemination of traditional knowledge. This scholarly work not only enhances the educational experience of students but also contributes to a global understanding of India's intellectual and cultural traditions.

Furthermore, the college has organized numerous cultural and spiritual activities, such as celebrating Diwali, Holi, and Navaratri, participating in district-level youth festivals, and observing International Yoga Day. These events provide students with hands-on experiences of India's diverse cultural practices and spiritual philosophies, fostering a deeper connection to their heritage.

The institution's efforts align well with the goals of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, which emphasizes the importance of integrating traditional knowledge systems into modern education. By actively promoting IKS, Government Degree College for Men, Srikakulam, serves as a model for other educational institutions aiming to balance modern education with the rich cultural and intellectual traditions of India.
