Objective of the Event	The primary objective of the orientation programme was to introduce and familiarize participants with the concept and importance of Community Service Projects (CSP) and the Internship/Apprenticeship Initiative (IIC). The event aimed to highlight the significance of community engagement and experiential learning in enhancing students' practical skills, social responsibility, and overall educational experience. Additionally, it sought to encourage students and faculty to actively participate in these initiatives to foster a culture of service and professional development within the institution.
	The orientation programme, organized by the IQAC, focused on

Description of the event	providing a comprehensive understanding of the Community Service Project and Internship/Apprenticeship Initiative. Sri B. Mohanrao, an experienced faculty member, led the session, sharing insights on how these initiatives integrate into the broader educational framework. The programme included detailed explanations of the objectives, benefits, and implementation strategies for CSP and IIC. Participants were engaged through presentations, interactive discussions, and real-life examples of successful projects. The session also covered the roles and responsibilities of students and faculty in executing these projects effectively, emphasizing the impact of community service and hands-on learning on personal and professional growth.
Outcome of the Event	The orientation programme successfully raised awareness among participants about the Community Service Project and Internship/Apprenticeship Initiative. Students and staff gained a deeper understanding of the importance and benefits of these programs, including their potential to enhance practical skills, community engagement, and career readiness. The event inspired many to actively participate in CSP and IIC activities, contributing to the institution's mission of holistic education and community involvement. The increased awareness and enthusiasm for these initiatives are expected to lead to higher participation rates and more impactful projects in the future, ultimately benefiting both the students and the wider community.
