Brief Report	Planet Earth is endowed with a number of natural resources. Natural resources refer to the resources that are available naturally without any effort or interference of man. Sunlight, air, water and earth are some of the natural resources on Planet Earth. These natural resources help keep up life. All life forms depend on these natural resources to survive. Natural resources may be renewable or non-renewable. Non-renewable resources should not be wasted or abused as they are limited. As humans we should appreciate the natural resources and use them judiciously so that their benefits may be derived by all life forms.
